Activity: Types of identification (ID)

Option A

If you bring one of the following types of ID to the polling station, no other documents are needed:

- A driver's licence
- A government-issued photo ID showing your name and current address (such as a provincial or territorial ID card)

But if you don't have these types of ID, don't worry — Option B or Option C can work too.

Option B

You can show one piece of ID with your name on it and a separate document that shows both your name and your address.

What examples could you use? Write down your ideas in the chart provided.

ID with my name on it	+	Document with my name and address
My credit card	+	My cell phone bill
	+
	+

Option C

You can bring someone you trust who can confirm your address. Who would you choose?

Just remember: the person must have valid ID and be registered to vote at the same polling station as you.

Someone I know
My neighbour, Lang

To learn more about types of ID for voting, go to:

Have your ID ready A list of the many types of ID and documents that you can bring to a polling place: elections.ca